OCPL Celebrates 70th Anniversary with Special Edition Library Cards

Be one of the first people to get a brand new special edition library card by entering the Oconee County Public Library's photo contest. Take a picture of yourself or your family showing your library card(s). Don't have a library card? Get creative and take a picture anyway. Post that picture on Facebook, Instagram, or Twitter with the hashtag #CelebrateOCPL. Winners will be randomly chosen from #CelebrateOCPL tagged pictures to receive a new special edition card and a prize pack full of OCPL goodies. Pictures may also be submitted via email to leahprice@oconeesc.com. The last day to post a picture is June 29. Winners will be announced July 5.

"The library has never had library cards like this before," says Leah Price, Westminster Branch manager and library publicity coordinator. "We are excited to celebrate our 70 years of service to Oconee County and offer these cards to our customers."

These special edition library cards will be available mid-July for new members or as replacements for $2. More anniversary events are planned for this fall. For more information about contact the library at (864) 364-5760.
